THE CONSPIRACY CASES.

THE MOTION TO DISMISS IS OVERRULED.

And the Court Proceeds With the Taking of Testimony on Behalf of the Defendants.

At the opening of the Court this morning the decision of Judge Carter in the conspiracy cases was put off for an hour to allow of the dispatch of enquiry was made by his friends. I and much surmise was expressed as to Signed some minor cases. At eleven o'clock, in the presence of a crowded court room, Judge Carter called the case of the Provisional Government vs. Walker, Sinclair and Crick, and read the follow ing decision on the defendants' motion to dis:niss:

The Court regrets very much that the limited time at its disposal for coming to a conclusion upon this motion has prevented a more thorough and careful analysis of the evidence offered on behalf of the prosecution as the Court would liked to have made and the conclusion reached must not be taken as indicating in any way a conclusion which might be reached upon a full examination of the testimony taken. It must be remembered that the motion is simply preliminary, and that, as is ordinarily the case with a motion of that kind, it does not carry the weight of one made at another stage of the proceedings. I have hastily written down some of the points I have gathered together, which I will read.

Defendants are charged with conspiracy. Conspiracy is defined by our penal code to be a "malicious combination or mutual understanding or concerting together of two or more to commit, etc." A conspiracy, therefore consists, not merely in intention, but in agreement, by two or more persons There must be a previous concert to do the unlawful act. Their agreement is an act in advancement of the intent of each. The agreement may be express or implied, and it is not essential that any but the leading conspirators know the exact part each is to perform. The least degree of consent or collusion is sufficient, and this joint assent of minds, like all other parts of a crimina case, may be established as an inference of the jury. It is sufficient if two in more in any manner, through any con trivance, positively or tacitly, come to an understanding. Base c imbination with joint design is sufficient. The common design or object of the defendants is clearly disclosed by the testimony to have been the overthrow of the Provisional Government It is not necessary to constitute a conspiracy that the means should be predetermined. The question here is whether there was any collusion. The the Court is called upon to consider peach trees. whether it is sufficient to put him upon

The de-Crick roomed in Sinclair's house, and to the murdered dead. these, with other like matters, though very slenderly, connect Crick with the others charged sufficiently to make it

The motion for discharge is therefore overruled, and the accused may proceed with their defense.

MORE ROYALIST RUMORS. I There is Nothing in the Report About

Trouble on Lahaina. The absurd rumors going about today concerning an insurrection on Lahaina or on Maui (most people did not seem to know which), when investigated and boiled down, simply amount

o this:

For some time past there has been trouble in the native church at Lahaina over the pastor. The congregation is divided into two factions, one of which is in favor of keeping the pastor and the other of ousting him. The trouble has recently culminated in one faction harring up the doors of the church, while the other threatens to break them down whenever they feel like it. This state of affairs has been going on for three weeks, and complaint having been made to Marshal Hitchcock of the state of affairs he has detailed Captain Parker and Policemen John Thomas and William Needham to go over to Lahaina on this afternoon's steamer and settle the matter amicably if possible; if not to arrest the parties who are causing the trouble. Captain Parker is allowed full discretion in the matter. And thus another Royalist rumor falls flat.
